National Police Remembrance Day

2019 marks the 30th anniversary of National Police Remembrance Day. A day in which the wider community come together with members of the Policing families to commemorate, at marches and services across Australia and the South West Pacific Region, the sacrifice made by those men and women who serve us.

Queensland Police Commissioner, Katarina Carroll said this year was the first time a National Police Remembrance Day Service was held at the newly dedicated Queensland Police Memorial in Brisbane. Commissioner Carroll said, this was a watershed moment as she paused to remember those who have fallen. "We must never forget those who have been lost to us and similarly, we must never forget their families, their partners, their friends and their colleagues, who have also sacrificed and lost so much".

National Police Remembrance Day not only honours those who have lost their lives in the line of duty but also recognises the commitment, dedication and bravery of all past, present and future police officers.

During her address Commissioner Carroll also acknowledged "the inherent risk faced by police officers every day as they come to work facing uncertainty for what the coming shift may bring. We as a Service have more than 15,000 interactions with the public every day, some through the regular course of our duties and some through dangerous and emergent situations".

Minister for Police and Corrective Services Honourable Mark Ryan (MP) reiterated that 'services, marches and vigils had been held across the state for the community and police to remember the 147 Queensland Police officers who gave their life serving the state, as well as all police officers from across Australia and the South West Pacific, who paid the ultimate sacrifice'.

Minister Ryan acknowledged the Queensland Police Union of Employees and President Ian Leavers, initiative to create a Queensland Police Memorial and Ian's unwavering commitment to this cause is why this important landmark stands today. <http://statements.qld.gov.au/Statement/2019/9/27/police-pay-tribute-to-fallen-colleagues> 2019 marks the anniversary of the deaths of the following police officers, whom we honour and remember.

- 135 years since Constable Nathaniel Roberts of Windorah Police Station died after becoming lost in the bush without water near Connemara Station, close to Windorah.
- 135 years since Constable James McMullen from Maytown Police Station drowned while accompanying a prisoner to bathe in the Pioneer River near Maytown.
- 130 years since Constable Aldred Wavell of Corinda Police Station (Gulf of Carpentaria) was killed after tracking an offender to Lawn Hill where a gun fight ensued, and he courageously walked towards the line of fire calling for surrender.
- 125 years since Constable Edward Lanigan of Montalbion Police Station died in the execution of his duties while attempting to apprehend an offender in Montalbion, a settlement in north Queensland.
- 125 years since Constable Benjamin Ebbitt of Croydon Police Station died as a result of injuries sustained on 9 November 1890 where he was seriously assaulted attempting to arrest an offender. He never returned to active police duty following the offence.
- 110 years since Sub Inspector 2/c Michael Broderick of Charleville Police Station died as a result of injuries sustained when he fell from his horse in Charleville.
- 50 years since Senior Constable Colin Brown of Dayboro Police Station was killed in the line of duty when responding to an armed offender at a local dairy farm.
- 50 years since Constable Noel Steele of Booval Police station was killed in a car crash while in pursuit of a speeding vehicle in Booval.
- 50 years since Constable Alan Cabbage of Brisbane Traffic Branch died as a result of injuries received in a motor cycle crash at Salisbury.
- 40 years since Technical Officer Grade 1 James Patrick Browning of Brisbane Radio Maintenance Division was killed when his private motorcycle and two other cars collided in Bardon as he travelled home.
- 30 years since Plain Clothes Constable Brett Handran of the Juvenile Aid Bureau was killed in the line of duty as he responded to a domestic disturbance in Wynnum West.

SMILING EYES

Nearly 50 raw recruits, standing idly in the sun
Checking each other out, our new life had just begun
I saw him come towards me, hand outstretched and smiling eyes
“Giddyup, I’m Brett Handran, its great to meet all you guys.”

His laughter was infectious he had a kind word for everyone
Positive about everything, even the dreaded “Mack truck run”
30 years have passed since Brett was taken away
But I see those smiling eyes in my mind, like it was yesterday.

We trained, we studied, we marched and we swore an oath together
We went our separate ways, forever bound by an invisible tether
You always remember where you were, when Satan steals some time
The evil imprint laid us bare on the 29th of June in 1989.

Brett grew up in Wynnum, but was based at the City JAB
That day found him in his old haunts, he had some people to see
The gentle Winter sun was shining, as he soaked in the familiar sights “Shots fired!” crackled the radio and he turned on the siren and lights.

They roared into Carmichael Court, the first crew on the scene
A coward lay in waiting, armed and unseen
Brett got out to do his job, even though he had no cover
A shot rang out, and in an instant, we lost a mate, a son, a brother.

"Oh God no, I'm hit!" Brett cried as he fell to the ground
His partner tried to get to him, but was hit by another round
Brett lay there alone, as his life was slipping away
A lonely death, with a little girl, who was also murdered that day.

I wonder, did he hear the sirens, as his world faded to black?
Did he feel our love, did he know he wasn't coming back?
Did he feel the agony of his parents, of a son lost so soon?
Did he watch the lines of blue, when the piper played his mournful tune?

His life was stolen by another life, by a life with little worth
I'll bet Brett was holding that little girl's hand, as their souls left this earth
I'll bet he felt no hatred, didn't think of the killer's prosecution
Brett would have forgiven him, he'd have no desire for retribution.

Brett was just 23, and I wonder what could have been
A wife, a life, a family, a future – all echoes of a dream
No smiling eyes in wedding photos, no family photos on the wall
Just a fading photo of a memory, and the sadness of a suffocating pall.

An empty chair at the Christmas table, the loneliness of his brother
An empty bedroom and the empty hearts of his Father and his Mother
His young sweetheart, no longer young, can't forget him, though she tries
For in her dreams and mirrored streams, she still sees his smiling eyes.

Brett lived with honour, and he died with honour too
Today, we honour and remember him, and mourn what he never got to do
Those smiling eyes, his open heart, a man who never saw the worst
In life, and in death, he never put himself first.

So say a prayer, lay a wreath, or have a beer for Brett
Stand strong as Police Officers, and never, ever forget
We'll always do, what we've always done, no matter what the cost
And we'll honour each other, each sister and brother, and all those we have lost.

Eloise Gannon FOUNDATION

www.eloisegannonfoundation.com.au

The Eloise Gannon Foundation was founded to honour the memory of Eloise Gannon who at 15 died unexpectedly due to a cardiac arrhythmia. Eloise was an extremely fit and active teenager who passed away without warning. Currently in Australia up to 4 young people die every week from sudden cardiac death (SCD). The Foundation was formed with the specific goal of raising awareness and introducing initiatives to help reduce the incidence of SCD in our youth.

THE FOUNDATION HAS 4 SPECIFIC AIMS :

- ♥ To raise awareness of the signs, symptoms and possible implications of cardiac arrhythmias
- ♥ To develop initiatives to assist in the early detection of heart conditions in young people
- ♥ To advocate for the importance of accessible defibrillators at sporting clubs, training venues and schools
- ♥ To encourage and support further research and funding into sudden cardiac death in Australian youth

SIGNS & SYMPTOMS

Have you or a young person you know ever experienced the following:

- ♥ Dizziness or light-headedness
 - ♥ Fainting
 - ♥ Sensation of rapid, fluttering or pounding heartbeats (heart racing)
 - ♥ Shortness of breath or chest tightness
 - ♥ Tiring easily during exercise
- Or
- ♥ Any family history of cardiac arrhythmia or an unexplained early death?

Awareness of possible signs and symptoms is an important step towards early detection.

These symptoms can be experienced at any age, time or fitness level and in most cases, will be unrelated to a cardiac arrhythmia. If any of these symptoms have been experienced, a precautionary ECG (Electrocardiogram) with your General Practitioner is highly recommended.

From the Branches

Inspector Russell Rhodes, Tablelands Patrol Group and member of CSP's Far North Queensland Branch has sent through the below article after returning from recreation leave. A 25 day adventure on his new Harley Davidson, which incorporated participation in the 2019 Wall to Wall, concluding in Canberra on Saturday 14 September 2019.

Russell regularly attends the Wall to Wall to salute two officers who he knew well, "I ride to acknowledge them as friends and as Police Officers who were integral to policing in the Far North." Russell remembers "Bamaga Senior Constable Sally Urquhart, a great friend, who was sadly involved in the Lockhart River Air Crash on 7th May 2005 and Mareeba Constable Casey Blain, who tragically lost his life in a car accident just outside of Georgetown on 29th March 29, 2013."

"I worked with both of them and I love the opportunity to go down to Canberra and remember their contribution to the force." <https://www.theexpressnewspaper.com.au/local-news/remembering-the-fallen/> "It's a chance for all four of us to represent Queensland Police as well as those officers we knew personally who lost their lives in the line of duty." Russell said.

Russell has very kindly provided some photo's to highlight the 11,200 km adventure he shared with his QPS mates. Running in his new bike, saw him travelling around southern NSW and all of Victoria.

Kind Regards,
Russell Rhodes

Hi everyone, it is Ted E. Bear (AKA) Junior Police Teddy here and I just wanted to tell you about my latest adventure. Peter and Fay Johnson settled me into the car and headed south on the Friday after attending the September Induction Parade at the Oxley Academy. We drove into Blues Country, first staying at Kempsey before we continued onto Goulburn the next day.

Then we went to Canberra for the Wall to Wall. Did you know that this was the 10th Anniversary of these event?

The Wall to Wall is an annual event where police members (serving or retired) from all States and Territories are joined by fellow unsworn police members, friends, family and proud supporters of policing, ride their motor cycles as a sign of respect and remembrance for their fellow police officers who have paid the ultimate sacrifice as a result of their service to the community. By the way...this ride also rekindles friendships and raises funds to support the identified policing legacy organisations and charities.

Back to my adventure, we spent 10 days checking out all the tourist things in Canberra including a visit to Floraide, where I saw lots of lovely flowers, before surprising Peter and Fay's son Matthew at the end of the ride, which was great.

From Canberra we went to Cooma and Jindabyne where I decided to play in the snow...a little bit cool (3 degrees) for a Queensland Police Teddy Bear I must say!!!

On the way back to the sunshine state we drove through Gunnedah, where we stayed overnight, before heading to Warwick to visit and stay with friends. The trip back to Brisbane was via Woodenbong, Rathdowney and Beaudesert.

I had a great time but unfortunately, we did not experience any liquid sunshine during our journey and the country side is very dry.

Cheers for now

Don't wait until it's too late – get ready now prepare your home:

The best time to prepare your home is now. Taking steps now to secure and protect your property can improve the safety of your home during a bushfire, storm, flood or cyclone.

Understanding your risk is key to any preparation task. Once you have identified potential risks, preparing for them becomes easier. Here are a range of suggested tasks to assist you in preparing your home and property to minimise potential damage.

General home maintenance

Keep your roof in good condition and check it regularly
Keep gutters and downpipes clear so water can drain away quickly
Trim trees and overhanging branches (be aware of any overhead powerlines)
Check and fix any corrosion, rotten timber, termite infestations and loose fittings

General home preparations

Ensure your home, contents and car insurance is current and adequate. Check your policy includes debris clean up and removal
Identify your strongest room to shelter in during severe storm or cyclone
Identify where and how to turn off the main supply for water, power and gas
Have items on hand, such as water storage containers, spare fuel for your vehicle (ensure you store it safely), camp stove and fuel for cooking without power

If you live in a flood-prone area

Understand your risk
Store all poisons and garden chemicals well above ground level and out of reach of children
Identify indoor items you will need to raise or empty if flood threatens
Consider alternatives to carpet and relocate power-points to well above previous flood levels (using a licensed contractor)

If you live in a cyclone / severe storm-prone area

Understand your risk
Arrange for a professional builder to check your building and identify ways you can increase the structural security of your home to withstand high winds
Fit windows with shutters or metal screens for added protection during high winds

If you live in a fire-prone area

Understand your risk
Download and prepare your Bushfire survival plan
Ensure access to your property is easy for fire and emergency vehicles
Remove materials that can help fuel a fire (e.g. long dry grass, dead leaves, branches)
Keep roof and gutters clean of dead leaves
Check that pumps, generators and water systems are working correctly

Final home preparations

When warnings are issued for cyclone or severe storm:

Disconnect electrical appliances and external television / radio aerials and turn off electricity and gas main supplies if instructed to do so
Secure outdoor furniture and garden items
Fill buckets and bath with clean water in case of interruptions to water supply
Close windows with shutters or tape windows with strong tape and draw curtains

When warnings are issued for flood:

Disconnect electrical appliances
Move outdoor equipment, garbage, chemicals and poisons to a higher location
Empty and raise freezers / refrigerators and stack or move furniture, valuables and electrical items off-site
Sandbag internal drains and toilets to prevent sewage backflow
Move livestock, plant and feed to higher ground.

Be prepared in the event that you have to leave your home. Download the Get Ready Queensland prepare for evacuation fact sheet.

The members of Community Supporting Police sincerely thank: Mr Mike Currie, Mr Bruce Jones, Ms Shannon Daus and QBANK for the ongoing support of CSP in particular the editorial, which appeared in the September Edition of their members' newsletter.

The article, which outlined our organisation, covered the fact that since 1991 CSP "has continued to raise funds to provide emergency accommodation free of charge to hundreds of Queensland Police Service (QPS) families who have required assistance". The piece importantly explains that requests for assistance can be made through the Police Chaplain or Human Services Officer.

The commentary acknowledged "the occupancy rate for all 10 emergency facilities throughout Queensland is over 80% all year round, thus reflecting the ongoing need for such facilities across the State". Furthermore that "CSP funds the maintenance of these facilities, including the provision and upkeep of electrical appliances, furnishings, regular cleaning, pest control and payment for utilities, through the sale of Police branded merchandise."

Recognising "these facilities play a significant role in the lives of many members of the QPS especially during times of trauma and crisis", is the reason behind QBANK's generous support of CSP.

This help "is by way of sponsorship", which assists in maintaining "the QPS owned emergency accommodation facilities". As well as QBANK staff helping out by volunteering their "time at various events throughout the year to help raise much needed funds."

Importantly, the article also advised the ways in which "you can support the work of CSP by:

*making a donation

*liking them on Facebook and keeping up with their news

Community Supporting Police representatives: Mr Bryan Brown (president), Mr Dan Mahon (vice president) and Mr Victor Serchen (treasurer) (pictured left) were honoured to be part of QBANK's Everyday Hero Awards function which was held on Friday 11th October 2019, at Queensland University of Technology's (QUT) Garden Point Campus.

QBANK CEO Mr Mike Currie welcomed everyone the sixth annual event which recognises the contribution of Queensland's frontline and public service workers, as well as youth aged 17 years and under who go above and beyond displaying "a selfless commitment to their communities."

Mr Currie said "Each year the QBANK Everyday Heroes Awards go from strength to strength and this year was no exception. I congratulate each and every one of our winners and nominees in the 2019 Awards on their amazing acts of bravery, kindness and dedication." The five category winners each receive a $1,000 cheque and $1,000 donated to a charity of their choice, {whilst} The Young Everyday Heroes Award winner will receive a $500 bursary towards their training and development.

<https://www.qbank.com.au/latest-news/2019/qbank-reveals-winners-of-queensland-s-everyday-her>

Achievement - Christopher Hay, Queensland Police Service: Christopher Hay of Darling Downs has demonstrated exceptional achievement in his fundraising efforts for the Children's Hospital Foundation. After donating part of his liver to his ill son, Senior Constable Hay challenged himself to travel 48 US state capitals in 48 days without the aid of public transport and raised over $27,000 for the Children's Hospital Foundation.

Dedication - Kahla Mawby, Queensland Ambulance Service: Kahla Mawby of the Gold Coast displayed extraordinary dedication whilst holidaying in Indonesia when a 7.2 magnitude earthquake devastated the country. Kahla took it upon herself to search for a way she could help flying to impacted areas by helicopter to provide medical aid to the injured.

Excellence - Mallory Hofmeier, Queensland Police Service: Mallory Hofmeier of North Queensland has been acknowledged for her excellence in saving a young female who was threatening to take her own life. Miss Hofmeier exhibited bravery and commitment when she communicated with the woman who had a hearing-impairment, convincing her to safely return into the care of support services.

Ownership - Garry Casey, Queensland Police Service: Garry Casey of Brisbane has been recognised for his tireless efforts in the development of the Mobile Policing Facility (MPF) – a dynamic resource that has enabled the Railway Squad to innovate and challenge how they respond to calls for service. Senior Constable Casey's vision has leveraged the partnership between Queensland Police Railway Squad and Queensland Rail to improve community safety and policing presence across the rail network.

Working Together - Steve Whitfield and Michael Stuth, Queensland Ambulance Service: Steve Whitfield of the Gold Coast and Michael Stuth of Agnes Waters founded The Wild Medic Project to provide medical aid, resources and support to the devastated rural communities of Nepal following the 2015 earthquakes. Four years later, The Wild Medic Project has led over 18 medical expedition teams to Nepal to provide rural communities free primary health care and medical aid.

Young Everyday Heroes Award - Troy Ottaway, Surf Life Saving Queensland: Troy Ottaway of the Gold Coast has been recognised for his countless acts of bravery and dedication to the job, including saving the lives of over 30 people in his first season of surf life saving. Troy is a tireless volunteer and has been the first responder on scene to several incidents including a young girl who had sustained severe lacerations and a spinal injury and a surfer who had been bitten by a poisonous sea snake.
